

Computer Centers

An MPRB Technology Initiative

The MPRB has a technology initiative in collaboration with Osiris Organization, a non-profit organization, to bring open public access to computer technology to park participants in the MPRB public parks. Through its fundraising efforts, Osiris Organization provides equipment, software and youth employment. Osiris provides all of the computer center construction, networking and technical support for the centers.

There are 14 computer centers throughout the MPRB system. The computer centers are open to the public and each park has a variety of programming offered. The Minneapolis Park & Recreation Board along with Osiris are working towards a goal to have the majority of the parks with computer centers.
